

Patrol Overview

Protect the people traveling within your school zone.

Safe Communities Start with Safe Schools

Since 1920, AAA School Safety Patrol has helped communities ensure the safety of their school zones by allowing students to take a leadership role in promoting pedestrian safety. By teaching students proper pedestrian practices and taking safe routes to school, the program helps reduce traffic concerns and serves as a benefit to the students, their parents and caregivers, and the community.

How It Works

This is a free program offered to all schools by AAA. To register, a school must have a designated school administrator or teacher responsible for implementing and supervising the program. In some cases, certain tasks may be delegated to and assisted by adult volunteers, including caretgivers. All Patrollers must participate in a safety patrol training session and wear patroller equipment when on duty. Patrollers are positioned curbside rather than on the roadway and never walk out into the road or direct traffic. The job of the Patroller is to direct students, not traffic. An adult Advisor must always be present during patrol.

Benefits

Students who participate in AAA School Safety Patrol join over half a million students across North America who are proud to be a part of the rich heritage of this program. These are students who are leading the way to keep young pedestrians safer in their communities. They are also recognized as safety ambassadors and active role models for younger children. Students who participate in the program gain important lifelong skills, including:

- Leadership
- Confidence
- Volunteerism
